“Christian Life is Centered in the Church”

Dear Friends in Christ,

When I was a child of 12, my summers included several weeks with my grandparents on their farm. We called grandfather “Popo” after the oldest grandchild tried to say “Papa” and “Popo” came out. It stuck. I followed Popo from sun-up till bed-time. Sundays were special. We got dressed up and went to the very visible church at the top of the hill. Sundays, Popo and I fed the cows while Grandma milked the cow because time was precious. But I got to milk other days when there was more time. Then on to feed corn and slop to the pigs. Next, in the chicken house, we put out chicken feed and cleaned the watering trays. Lastly, we hunted the eggs. Popo was constantly pulling the pocket watch from its overall pocket. We had a special job at 8:00 am. We’d get in the farm truck and drive up to the church. We went in the door of the bell tower. I was so excited for Popo as he got to grab the bell rope from the wall hook. He pulled it down steady till it rang and then let it slide up through his grip ringing again, then pulled down again and again. Why do we ring the bell, I asked?

Popo replied: “It’s to remind everyone that it’s church day and time to quit work and get cleaned up for church.” They took me to Sunday school at 9:00 and church started at 10:30. That church was the center of that farm community and “everybody” came. The way that community was centered in that church, most faithfully attending reminded me of a quote. A great theologian once said: “The Christian life is centered in the church. It’s God’s design. His people are “the one’s who worship together.” There, they receive his gifts.” In today’s congregations, Christian life isn’t shaped exactly like that. People consider worship more as an optional thing for Sundays. Their friends and family at church are just one of the circles of belonging in their life. The circle of church gets more attention certain times of the year, though, and Lent is one of them. The church is organized around seasons – Lent being the one preceding Easter. Lent is “that special time to deal with our sin before God and one another.” It’s a penitential time when we remember our sins, repent of them and realize that Jesus carried our sins in his body as he suffered and died on the cross for them. If our life’s center is Christ and his church, then the local church we attend should be the center of our life. It’s the place we get God’s word and sacraments – where God declares us forgiven and our sins washed away. Trinity Lutheran Church has named Trinity Life as that very lifestyle focused on reconciling our faults between God and others through repentance and forgiveness. Lent includes a process encompassing special worship services on Wednesday evenings. Ash Wednesday starts it on February 26th. On the four Wednesdays after that are more services starting at 7:00 pm. Then comes Holy Week and Easter Sunday. Ash Wednesday, we come and get ashes on our forehead to remind us “we are dust and to dust we will return.” Two things to take away as you read this: 1) Lent is the time to deal with your sin, conflicts, errors, or faults before God and other people, and 2) Lent is a 6-week season to get back to the Christian life centered in the church. Pastor offers private confession to help with sin, and coaching for reconciliation. Christ is the head of the whole church of all saints and we are served by him and meet him in our local church, Trinity Lutheran Church. If you don’t come to church, this is the time to re-start. If you don’t have a church like this, please come. If you come the church most Sundays, then add the special services of Lent and Holy Week. We don’t have a church bell that tolls. It’s a different time a place. But your phone sure has an alarm that you can set to a church bell sound so the church reminder will have that ring to it.

May God bless you to be “centered in the church” this February as you observe Super Bowl Sunday, St. Valentine’s Day, President’s Day, and Ash Wednesday!

Yours in Christ,

Pastor Glenn

Evangelism: We made some progress developing a communication card that everyone will use in worship services. We hope to get communication materials going for Olive Branch ministry. We hope to do a chancel drama in coming weeks to introduce a method for using them to reach a specific person you want to tell about Jesus and invite in to the Trinity Life. The Trinity Life banner sign for the entrance is done and needs installation.

Olive Branch Outreach
We need volunteers to develop marketing materials from our prototypes.

Stewardship: 2019 offerings and income moved our bank balance from far in the red to having a very strong balance in the bank.

Disc Golf: The club plans to build 9 new holes on our East property after putting gate and fencing up to keep out dumpers. The club is delaying the annual fundraiser tournament in February so they can focus on the new 9.

Trustees: We got some electrical repairs done in January and another project is in progress. More work is needed to fix numerous gutter leaks, especially on the East side. The disc golf club hopes to get wifi for His Place as soon as Pastor has time to order, pay and set it up.
